

ENGLAND ON IRELAND

IRELAND TO BE TREATED AS A COUNTRY WITHOUT RIGHTS

A Bloody Policy Outlined by the London Times—Mr Parcell's Views on the Philadelphia Convention
—His Conviction that Nothing is to Be Hoped for From Parliament.

LONDON, April 30.—The Times in an editorial, says the Irish convention at Philadelphia began with a clap-trap offensively and malignantly, and closed after the same fashion. The whole scene, it says, would be painful, were it not supremely ridiculous. The only practical suggestion made by the convention for injuring Great Britain is the advice to people of Irish sympathies to buy nothing from England unless they were obliged to is a confession of im-reasons whence Irish malice is driven to such a paltry expedient which, if tried, would only injure its adopters. The lesson for Great Britain is to ignore the Irishmen and abandon the hope of bringing them to a better frame of mind by the continuance of their present favours. They are convinced the rest of the world that they are unfit to have national independence and they must be made to feel the strong arm of the law.

PARNELL HOPES FOR SOMETHING

Mr. Parnell, in an interview, says: We have nothing to expect from the present parliament, absolutely nothing. It is resolutely set in advance against every proposal in the direction of the English against such legislation as humanity demands. The only hope is in the future parliament. We are alone. We are foreigners. The very principles which the ministry not long ago urged parliament to apply in legislation for Ireland are at present set against us. The only way to get a parliament to legislate for the government of whom experience proves nothing, and for whom a new political philosophy must be discovered; and yet the Irish people practically ask for nothing but the application to them, upon their own national law, of the principles of government sought to together. They believe that they know best what is good for themselves and naturally feel, and will forever feel, an unconquerable spirit of resistance to the form of government that makes colonists of them in their own national law. The only form of government among the Irish has never among the Irish, has been believed and acted upon by many other people, has been demonstrated to be absolutely unquerable. For England to ignore this desire is political folly; to attempt to govern the Irish without consulting the Irish is political blindness. But the folly and blunder go on. Ireland has suffered beyond political comprehension and England's political growth has been dwarfed. The minister practically says to the Irish people, "The only way to save their majesty's government knows how to make her Irish subjects prosperous is to assist them to leave the British empire and become independent, which they are already doing." This is a policy which, as far as the policy is true in the year 1883 of the Christian religion and in a Christian nation, will be the most difficult subject for explanation to the future historian; that the government which has been so long in office has been so stupid as to apply for the relief of the discontent and distress in one of the most fertile and naturally endowed portions of the empire has an overwhelming majority of supporters in its ranks. I have nothing to hope until there is a complete change in such a government and such a ministry.

In the house of commons this afternoon, the chief secretary for Ireland, Mr. Stansfeld, stated that a widespread conspiracy to murder existed in the county Clare. The government, he said, hoped to bring the conspirators to justice. Mr. O'Donnell, member of the opposition, said that the chief secretary was altering the deposition made on oath. He asked whether the government would retain him in office. Mr. Trevelyan and Mr. Gladstone both answered in the affirmative to the question. Mr. O'Donnell then laid on the table evidence which he claimed would sustain his charge against Lloyd.

The rigslad of Sweden has by a large majority of the proposed neutralization of Sweden. The foreign minister, in the course of the debate on the proposal, declared that all the powers were aware that the poli-

ne. He denied the truth of the rumors of the existence of a secret treaty between Sweden and Germany.

Hermann Schütz DeLitzsch, founder of the system of friendly societies in Germany, is dead.

The appointment of twelve bishops to Catholic sees in Poland is gazetted at St. Petersburg.

THE IRISH PRISONERS.

The British Government to Demand the Extradition of a Number of Fugitives From the United States.

DUBLIN, April 30.—It is stated that Joseph Hanlan, one of the prisoners awaiting trial for being concerned in the Phoenix park murder, has made a statement in prison criminating a number of other persons. As Hanlan refused to depose when first brought before the court, the British Government therefore has its own information to proceed with and its own information will be used against him.

Patrick Delaney, who was sentenced to ten years penal servitude for assaulting Justice Lawson, and who was brought from his cell to be charged with a more serious crime, has pleaded guilty. His sentence for shooting at Justice Lawson will probably be commuted. Thomas Caffrey will probably be hanged in the present trial, and the trial of the other prisoners will be concluded in a fortnight. The prisoners implicated in the assassination conspiracy will be tried at the next commission. The police know that the murderers of Baily and Kenney are in America. It is anticipated that a request will be made to the United States government for the extradition of about a dozen persons.

Fitzharris, known as "Skingoat," one of the alleged principals in the murder of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke, was brought to the bar yesterday, but did not appear. The counsel for the prosecution was opened by Mr. Porter, attorney general for Ireland. He argued that although Fitzharris gizant of the act, and was the implement of the murder, and he drove off the assassins and handed. The defense will endeavor to prove that Fitzharris made a confession to a barrister, and that he was his avenger as a cab driver, and did not know what the object of their errand was. The man Nevin, arrested here on Saturday on the charge of being concerned in a conspiracy to murder, has been ordered to appear in court.

It is stated that a document containing charges against a dozen persons, now in America, who are accused of murder in Ireland and Kenny and Bailey, have been forwarded to Mr. Sackville West, British minister at Washington, and that the British government in the cases of five more alleged murderers, secret negotiations are now proceeding between the British and American governments.

CLIFDEN, April 30.—Two merchants of this town named O'Keefe and Connors have been arrested on the charge of being connected with the conspiracy to murder. According to the information given to the authorities by an informer, a number of apparently respected persons were implicated in the murder conspiracy.

THE SECOND CYCLONE.

A Wind Which Sweeps Everything Before It—From Texas to Louisville.

NEW ORLEANS, April 30.—A special dispatch to the Times-Democrat from Linden, La., says: A terrible cyclone visited this parish seven or eight miles west of here, on Saturday morning, passing from the northeast to the southwest, tracking over 15 miles. The wind was of such terrific force that not a house here or other obstruction is left. The track on one tract of forty acres of heavy timbered land, not a tree is left standing. Fences were blown down and the stock scattered. The fodder left in the mows was blown away. Mr. Youngblood was seriously and several children were slightly hurt. Most miraculous escapes were made. The wind was so strong that it blew across a field aligned uninjured. No one was killed.

The Times-Democrat's Wescon special says: Wm. Blackburn, aged 53, died of injuries received during the cyclone. The others who died are generally doing well. The Red Cross society is doing noble work. The local committee of the Red Cross committee at Beauregard will continue to supply the immediate necessities of those in the city limits.

A Question of Uniforms.
PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—A meeting of the members of the Roman Catholic church, many of whom are members of the Grand Army of the Republic, was held yesterday to consider the recent decree of Archbishop Woods against permitting uniformed Catholics other than members of the order to enter churches in this city to attend the services of deceased comrades. As there was some doubt as to the authenticity of the order, the committee was appointed to investigate. The committee will report tomorrow its consent to a requiem mass in all Catholic churches on Decoration day, and that the Catholic members of the Grand Army of the Republic be al-

A Mistaken Shot.
BOSTON, April 30.—Albert A. Bials, of the firm of Bials & Perley, special dealers of this city, shot and killed his partner, A. Perley, on the Fall river steamer, Bristol, last night. The two occupied a room together, and about 1:30 Perley got out of his berth and went to the window. Bials was awakened by the rattling of the blinds, and thinking some one was trying to enter the room, he leveled his first .38-caliber bullet, which struck Perley's forehead, and passed out at the back of his head. He lived about one and a half hours, but was unable to talk to the police on the arrival of the boat at Fall River.

A Ship Sunk.
NORFOLK, Va., April 32.—About 10 o'clock last night, near Craney Island light house, the Old Dominion steamer, Manhattan, bound for New York, collided with the United States tug, Jean Land, of the navy yard, sinking the tug instantly. The tug was returning to the navy yard from the United States steamer, Tennessee, at Hampton roads, with a crew of ten men. All of whom were saved. The Manhattan stopped to learn what damage she sustained which is thought to be slight. She proceeded.

The turtle was at least forty feet long, thirty feet wide and thirty-five feet from the apex of the back to the bottom of the under shell. The flippers were thirty feet long. It was not deemed advisable to STEUBENVILLE, O., April 30.—The Scott liquor law has decided unconstitutional to-day by Justice Day. A saloon keeper selling without written consent of the landlord, was arrested as a test case. SOME TERRACED FARMS.

Progress of Agriculture in Coweta County—Terracing the Land.

From the Coweta Advertiser.

The subject of terracing farms has for the last few years attracted a great deal of attention in agricultural circles. Desiring to do all in our power towards the advancement of the interests of the farmers of Coweta, and to bring every thing of possible benefit before them, we dropped in upon our townsman Mr. Asbury Arnold, the other day, whom we knew had been giving the matter careful study. He met us with his usual pleasant smile and friendly greeting, and we proceeded at once to the question which was engaging our minds.

"Mr. Arnold," we said, "have you not been giving the subject of farm terracing special attention of late?"

"Oh, yes," he replied, "I have been experimenting with terraces for several years, and am entirely satisfied that they are just what we need, and that they will do all that is claimed for them."

"Will you be kind enough to tell us what the great benefit is which is to be derived from terracing a farm?"

"Certainly," he replied, "the great benefit is that the great part of rolling land of this section has been exhausted by long cultivation, and the soil allowed to wash away. The success of our agricultural interests depends in a large measure not only upon its restoration to its original strength, but it must be enriched to such an extent as to make it profitable to cultivate. The thing that keeps our farmers poor—the masses of them—are the fact that they work poor land and putting forth no effort to make it better. Now one of the great reasons that has prevented the enriching of the soil of the rolling farms is the fact that they are so badly eroded. The farmer feels that it is money, time and labor lost to fertilize the land simply to see it swept away the first heavy rain, or at farthest in the course of the first winter that follows his crop. Until the problem is solved of how to raise the land from washing, but little will be done in this direction. There can be no question but that terracing has solved this problem. It becomes, therefore, a matter of the first importance to every farmer, it is the first step to better times and a larger prosperity."

"Well, that seems to be very clear—certainly there is no gainsaying the proposition you have advanced. Now will you please explain to us the principle upon which this terracing theory is based, and also how the work is done?"

"The object of terracing is to equalize the force of the heavy rainfall so that it will be no stronger at one point than another. It is done by throwing up the terrace upon a perfect level. It seems hard for some people to understand, but there will of course, be no more pressure on the terrace in a hollow than on a ridge—every part of it is on a level from one end to the other. This you see will make every furrow run in a terraced field also on a level, and there cannot be a wash because the force of the water is equalized. I have quite a rolling field which is thoroughly terraced, and some of the rows are fully half a mile long. I have seen it during a heavy rain so that you could swim a duck in every foot of it, and none of the water left the field. But now let me answer the last part of your question as to how the work is done."

Here Mr. Arnold brought out a very handsome instrument, mounted on three legs. This, he said, "is an architect's level. It can be regulated by these screws on four sides, and then turns in every direction. Now look through this brass tube. The lens has magnifying power enough for you to see a spot the size of a dollar three-quarters of a mile. You notice there is a horizontal line, a cross the centre of the tube. This is a fine instrument and cost forty dollars. With it I can lay off a perfectly level terrace. The step level is utterly unreliable. I used one for awhile and then threw it away. Now I have my black staff and when I have placed my instrument in the field and I level it, I mark a spot on the staff with chalk which is the same height. My assistant takes this staff and moves on, and when he finds a spot, say fifteen or twenty feet away, and on smooth ground twenty feet, where the horizontal line in the tube exactly strikes the spot on the staff, the place is marked, and on and on in this way. I have sometimes laid off as many as four terraces without changing the position of the instrument. I then take a two-horse plow and throw two furrows together along this line that has been marked out. These are allowed to grow up in grass forming a strong soil. If the land is rough the terrace will be a mile long, but if it is old land it will take it longer."

"How much fall do you allow between the terraces?"

"Three feet. If the land is not very steep this will make a terrace from thirty to forty feet apart. It does not pay to terrace very steep land where they must necessarily be quite close together; they ought not to be nearer than the average than twenty feet. The timely against washing in such a case is deep plowing. In a few years the level between the terraces becomes perfectly level."

"How is this brought about?"

"The rain carries the soil from the highest point above down on the terrace. The next year another furrow is run on the upper side of the terrace, and so on until the level is reached."

"But do these terraces never break?"

"Some times before they have become thoroughly sodded and during a very heavy rain; but they are easily repaired and by making them stronger than ever, in a little while will not break at all. The water frequently runs over the terrace and does not harm it if the land is plowed deep every drop of water that falls on the field will remain there to enrich the growing crops. In a dry season is itself a wonderful help."

"What do you think of hillside ditches?"

"Mr. Arnold smiled at this question and said, 'I have heard the best definition of a ditch, which in my opinion, has ever been given. A friend of mine in talking on this subject said rather vehemently, 'a ditch is a silent robber.' It is a trap set to catch the land and carry it off. I wouldn't have one on my place except, as a protection against outside water—that which comes upon you from higher and interrelated farms. We want the soil and the rain to both remain in the field."

"Are terraces of any value in cultivating corn?"

"They furnish a perpetual guide row by which every row may be run on a level."

"How much land can you lay off in a day with your present instrument?"

"That of course depends upon the steepness of the land and the intelligence of the man who carries the staff. On ordinary rolling land, and with a good hand, I can lay off from fifty to seventy-five acres."

"Has there been much land terraced in this county?"

"A good deal. I have terraced the farms of Major Brewster, Captain J. D. Sims, W. B. Orr, J. B. Sims, J. R. McCullum, Ed. Camp, J. D. Ray, Dr. Reese, Major Turner, and my own. In every case it has been a success."

Having thus thoroughly gone over the whole ground we thanked Mr. Arnold and bid him good-day.

And now that the good work has begun let it be carried on until every farm in the county has been terraced, and put in a condition to be brought up to the very highest state of cultivation. Terrace well, plow deep and more each year on the soil than you ever did and we shall soon be a happy and prosperous people.

That is one of the things we know very little about. So also about the man in the moon; we know hardly anything of him. And we know that the way to get rid of such is to take PREY DAY'S PAIN KILLER.

Piles.

Piles are frequently preceded by a sense of weight in the back, joints and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or neighboring organs. At times, symptoms of indigestion are present, as flatulency, uneasiness of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, producing a very disagreeable itching, particularly at night after getting warm in bed, is a very common attendant. Blind, bleeding and itching piles yield at once to the application of Dr. Ross's Pile Remedy, which acts directly upon the parts affected, absorbing the Tumors, and laying the intense itching, and effecting a permanent cure, where all other remedies have failed. Do not delay until the drain on the system produces permanent disability, but try it and be cured. Price, 50 cents. Sold by Messrs. J. H. Johnson & Co., No. 113 North Street, opposite National Hotel, Sharp Bros. and Dr. A. J. Pinson.

This has served as a test winter for the St. Gothard tunnel, which has answered the best expectations.

"Oh! My Back!"

Out of fifty persons who are forced by pain to use this calculation, on an average forty misapprehend the cause of their trouble. They lay it to a strain, a cold, an excess, a touch of lumbago or rheumatism, or some of the sort. All wrong. Such attacks mean that the kidneys are out of order. Perhaps they mean a right disease. Reader, do not neglect your back! Take Dr. Ross's Pile Remedy, the great kidney and liver medicine. It is a sovereign medicine and cures all kidney and bladder, liver and urinary complaints magically.

This is the first day in New Hampshire and Massachusetts, to-morrow in Vermont and Thursday, 19th instant, in Maine.

Mr. Hunt Speaks.

Editors CONTRIBUTION: An article appeared in THE CONSTITUTION of Sunday which I consider demands some attention at my hands. The article referred to was headed "Insurance Affairs," and is calculated to leave the impression that there is no insurance company already established by legislation, and states that there is a movement on foot to organize such an institution, to be controlled by merchants, for their own protection. There is no
"movement" on foot to organize a new insurance company, to be controlled by merchants for their protection. On the contrary, about one hundred of the leading business men of Atlanta, more than half of them are merchants already organized, and are now running an insurance company, and they have the power to do so. The article states that the company, the "Atlanta Home," has never "justified the board" but this is entirely erroneous. The company has been in existence for years, and has paid dividends to its policy holders.
The board of directors, and expect to make a handsome profit, a part of which will be returned to the policy holders. In this way the Atlanta Home will make its rates self-adjusting, and it is fair to say that a monopoly regime over the merchants when they are created, the controllers of a strong company of $250,000 capital. JOEL HUNT.

trained pigeon tricks were especially applauded.
It is fair to say that S. E. Mann does not advertise to do anything that he does not really do. The second part of the entertainment consists of a variety of dissolving views, presenting a series of beautiful
scenes in both continents, poetic and amusing figures.
The views are managed well and have some novel accompaniments. An excellent likeness of Mr. Stephens was loudly applauded. The programme concludes with the graceful dancing in mid air of Electra, the professor's daughter. She assumes various attitudes and holds them in the air with a puzzling obscurity of support. After the performance all persons holding tickets for the present were rewarded. Silver plate, cutlery, glass and fancy ware were given away to more than forty persons. All the tickets were put in a hat and from them two were drawn for the principal prizes. A lucky little dandy drew the tea set of forty-four pieces, and grained audibly. The satin dress

trained pigeon tricks were especially applauded.
It is fair to say that S. E. Mann does not advertise
to do anything that he does not really do. The second part of the entertainment consists of a variety of dissolving views, presenting a series of beautiful
scenes in both continents, poetic and amusing figures.
The views are managed well and have some novel accompaniments. An excellent likeness of Mr. Stephens was loudly applauded. The programme concludes with the graceful dancing in mid air of Electra, the professor's daughter. She assumes various attitudes and holds them in the air with a puzzling obscurity of support. After the performance all persons holding tickets for the present were rewarded. Silver plate, cutlery, glass
and fancy ware were given away to more than forty persons. All the tickets were put in a hat and from them two were drawn for the principal prizes. A lucky little dandy drew the tea set of forty-four pieces, and grained audibly. The satin dress ladies' dress pattern was drawn by a Mr. Thomas-
